Environmental impact

Climate change is a health issue, an equality issue, an educational issue, an economic issue, a cultural issue, a scientific issue, a security issue and a local community issue, as well as an environmental issue.

We recognize that the growing climate emergency is a serious risk and we can play a part in addressing the causes of climate change and supporting adaptation to its effects. We want to recognize and support those organizations who are considering the environmental impact in the delivery of their work and taking appropriate steps, this might be for example through the use of digital delivery to reduce travel and production costs.
